

Faith Makes A Person Worthy Through Jesus

Our message Sunday was taken from Revelation 2:9-10 and 1:18. In these verses, Jesus guarantees that the devil is going to bring us trouble. The entire book of Revelation speaks of specific prophecy.

However, in a general sense, these particular verses apply to the condition of our entire lives. The devil relentlessly looks for ways to separate us from God. Jesus says that those who endure until the end will receive a crown of life. To endure is to fight back, to resist the devil, to take a stand against him daily. We are not required to live in a way that allows the devil to defeat us. Jesus gives us the authority to overcome the devil. He has complete authority over everything, including hell and death. Noting is beyond the power of Jesus Christ.

One weapon the devil is very fond of is his ability to convince many people that they are not worthy to expect God to help them. Faith makes a person worthy through Jesus and there is ultimately nothing the devil can do about it. Praying, living based on faith, and being willing to go to war with the devil is God's will for us. He won't witness us attempting to obey His will and respond by abandoning us. When we face trouble the way He intends for us to do it, eternal life is the guaranteed result.

Our next brotherhood breakfast is this Sunday, December 1, beginning at 7 a.m. Jackie Sartain will be the guest speaker. Please make plans to attend.

Verse of the week: Hereby perceive we the love of God, because He laid down His life for us, and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

- 1 John 3:16

Please pray for those on our payer list, for God to intervene in their lives and touch them with His healing power as well as those in the world who are lost and without God that they might find salvation (2 Peter 3:9): Sheila Coleman; Shirley Defer; Arthur Nelson; Callie Odom; Peggy Baggett; John Caldwell; Terry Groner; the family of Ed Nail; John Keel; George Stewart; John Lucas; Dustin Potts; Kayla Roberts; Dustin Files; the family of Fred Link; Witt Walker; Joe Gross and family; Rev. Virgil Nelson and his ministry; and the Sand Hill Church family.

Please pray for God's protection, guidance, and safe return for those currently serving in the military overseas and for those who lead our country to turn to God and seek His guidance.

Please always remember the Israeli people in prayer and let's pray in agreement for God's strength and divine protection for them.

Worship service starts at 11 a.m. Pam Caldwell is teaching a children's Sunday School Class during the regular service. Anyone interested in bringing their children are encouraged to bring them at 11 a.m. The children who are already attending are excited about the class and are really enjoying it.

They are allowed to ask questions about what is being taught and encouraged to interact with the teacher about any spiritual matter or any problem they may be facing. It is a very open environment where the children are treated with love and dignity. Remember, we love you and we would like to have you join us. Anyone who is interested in getting information about Sand Hill is invited to call 473-2647.

A Superwoman Indeed

Linda Jamison, now a retired librarian and teacher residing in Kosciusko, also taught Jesse and Jeffery in school. So, she, too, can take some credit for their successes. Jesse is a Baptist minister, who works as a technical associate/test engineer for Wright Medical, an orthopedic company in Memphis, Tenn. Jeffery is an executive in Carrier Compliance and Administration with Walmart in the corporate headquarters in Bentonville, Arkansas.

The lessons these sons described are great examples for today's young mothers. Juanita's life and influence impacts others way beyond Yalobusha and Attala counties. She gives a whole new meaning to servanthood and motherhood as she continues to serve others non-stop day after day.

She is probably driving someone to the doctor right now. It is no wonder and no surprise. She was raised that way. A SUPERWOMAN, INDEED!

Update On The Oral History Project

Water Valley

Beginning in September, Ole Miss students in the graduate seminar "Southern Studies 560: Oral History Methods" began the process of interviewing community members in Yalobusha County, with the goal of helping to document and preserve the rich history of Yalobusha County's Black families and communities. They collaborated with Ms. Dottie Chapman Reed, author of the North Mississippi Herald column "Outstanding Black Women of Yalobusha County" and the generous individuals who agreed to be interviewed. In their final presentation, "All Our Names Were Freedom: Agency, Resiliency, and Community," they will share their process, stories they heard, and history they learned.

This event and project is co-sponsored by the Arch Dalrymple III History Department, the Center for the Study of Southern Culture, and the Office of Diversity and Community Engagement.

Shining more light on solar.

Entergy Mississippi is committed to providing affordable, reliable and clean power to Mississippians for generations to come. So we're making it easier for our customers to self-generate solar electricity and incorporate solar power into our power grid. Thanks to net metering, registered solar users earn credit for excess solar energy sent back to the grid.

The Mississippi Public Service Commission is making it easier to understand how solar can work for you. "A Consumer's Guide to Solar Power in Mississippi" provides information on how solar and net metering work, and the details you need to consider before purchasing or leasing hardware.
